Transfield Services announces departure of CFO

Transfield Services announced today that its current Chief Financial Officer Tiernan O'Rourke will be leaving the Company, effective at the end of September to take up a role as Chief Financial Officer at diversified property group Stockland.

"Tiernan leaves with our best wishes," said Managing Director and Chief Executive Officer Graeme Hunt.

"In his time as CFO, he's assisted in guiding the Company through several significant acquisitions and divestments, refinancing and a challenging market environment. He has also helped oversee implementation of our new enterprise resource planning system – the largest capital expenditure programme Transfield Services has ever undertaken."

As previously announced to the market, Transfield Services' new Chief Financial Officer Vincent Nicoletti will commence his role at the beginning of September and this will provide Mr Nicoletti with sufficient transition time as incoming CFO before Mr O'Rourke starts his new role in October.

ENDS.
