Myer Executive Resignation

Myer Holdings Limited today announced the resignation of Executive General Manager, Business Services and Strategy, Greg Travers, to take up a role within the resources sector.

Myer CEO Bernie Brookes paid tribute to Mr Travers' contribution to Myer over the past eight years, "While we will be very sorry to see Greg leave, he has been offered a great new opportunity to return to the resources sector with an international mining company. Greg spent many years in senior roles in the resources sector prior to joining Myer.

"Greg leaves with our best wishes and thanks for his valuable contribution since the period of private equity ownership of the business, through our IPO and business transformation," Mr Brookes said.

Mr Travers has provided three months' notice. His role will be covered by internal appointments while a review of further consequential changes and other appointments is under way.
