ASG SIGNS $11.3M DEAL WITH DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING IN WESTERN AUSTRALIA

Sydney, 1 July 2013 – IT services provider ASG Group (ASX: ASZ) has concluded a $11.3 million agreement with the Department of Housing in Western Australia for managed services, part of $86 million in contracts that ASG has recently concluded or is close to finalising with a range of public and private sector customers.

The agreement, which was secured following a rigorous competitive tender, will see ASG provide key components of the Department's managed services and has potential to generate additional revenue through associated projects over the five-year contract term. ASG first provided services to the Department of Housing over five years ago.

The contract with the Department of Housing is among $36 million in new deals that ASG has concluded in recent weeks, including a $14.8 million five-year deal with the Department of Education in Western Australia for Oracle licenses and support services.

ASG is close to finalising an additional $50 million worth of agreements across a range of customers nationwide as the preferred tenderer in exclusive negotiations, demonstrating its ability to leverage its unique offer of projects, managed services and New World Computing.

Managing Director Geoff Lewis said: "The agreements demonstrate our ability to leverage our skills and resources across multiple customers and locations as an Australian alternative to multinationals. Many of the new contracts have significant New World components as our customers look to our leadership to help them transition toward Cloud-based IT systems."

Commenting on the Department of Housing deal, Mr Lewis said: "Following a thorough selection process, ASG was successful in winning the contracted work packages against a number of competitors, sending a clear message to the market that our company is uniquely positioned to deliver the most effective IT services solutions to organisations."
